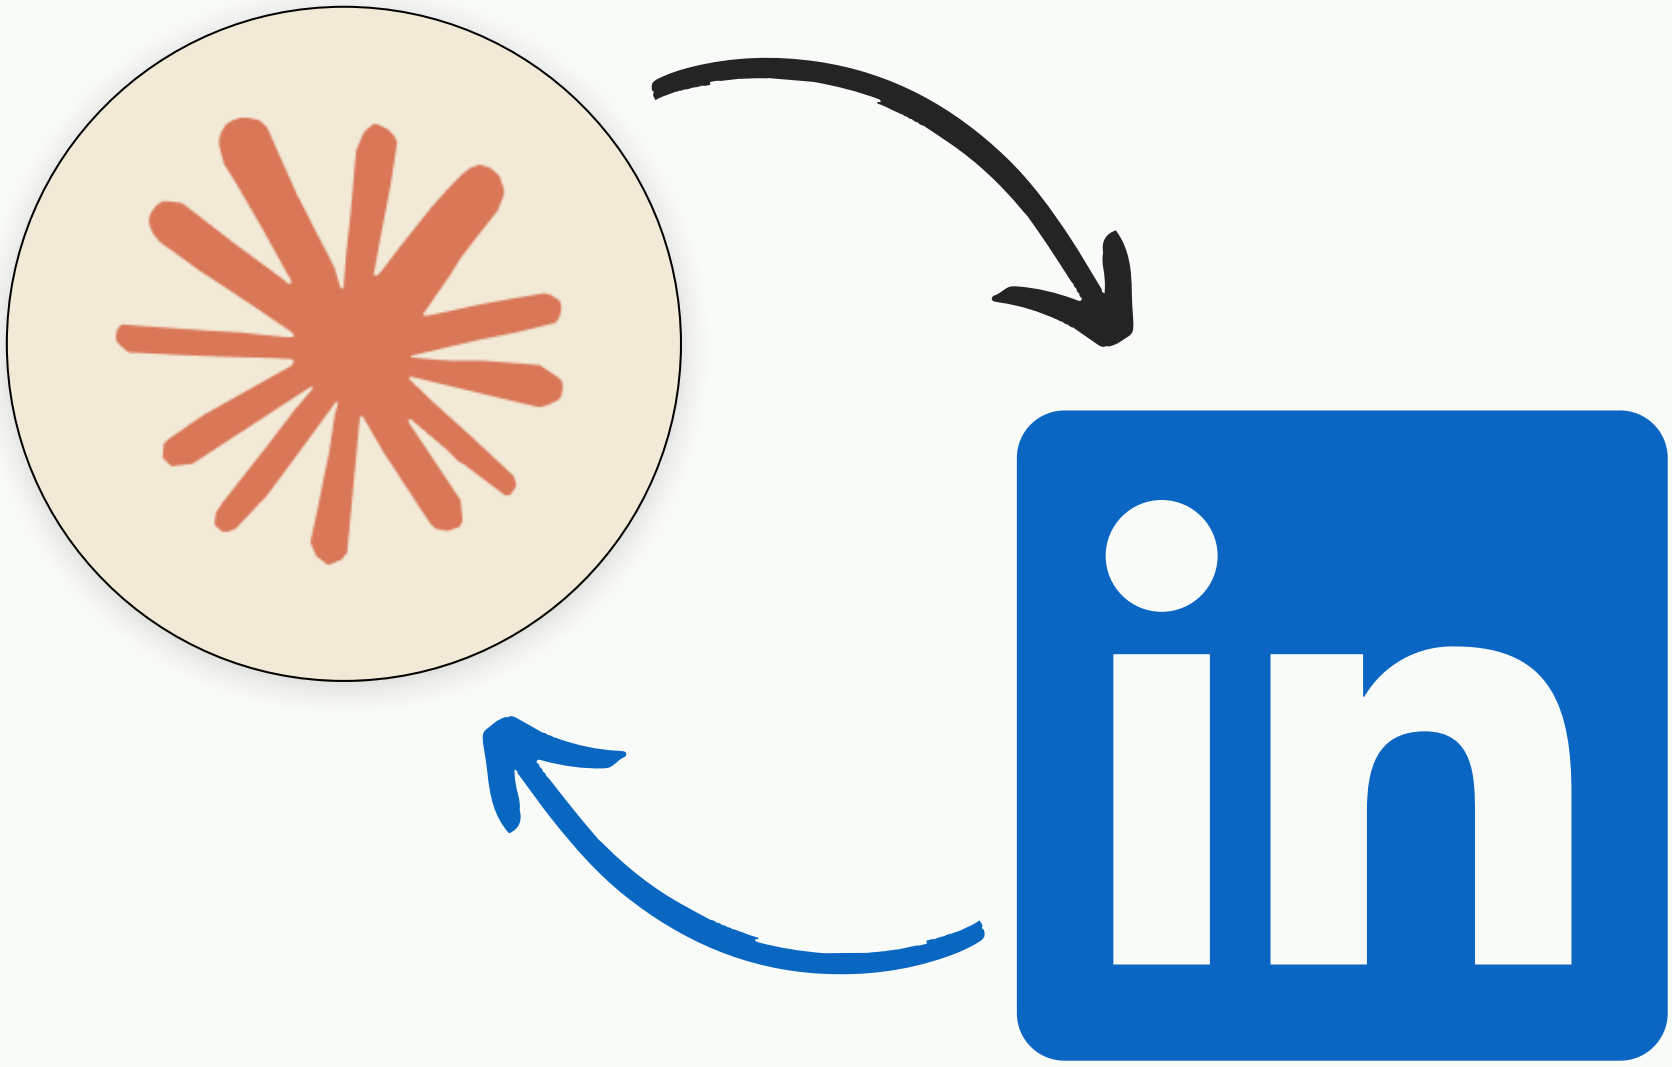
Yonathan Levy

5 Claude Co-work Workflows For LinkedIn

That save ~5+ hours a week

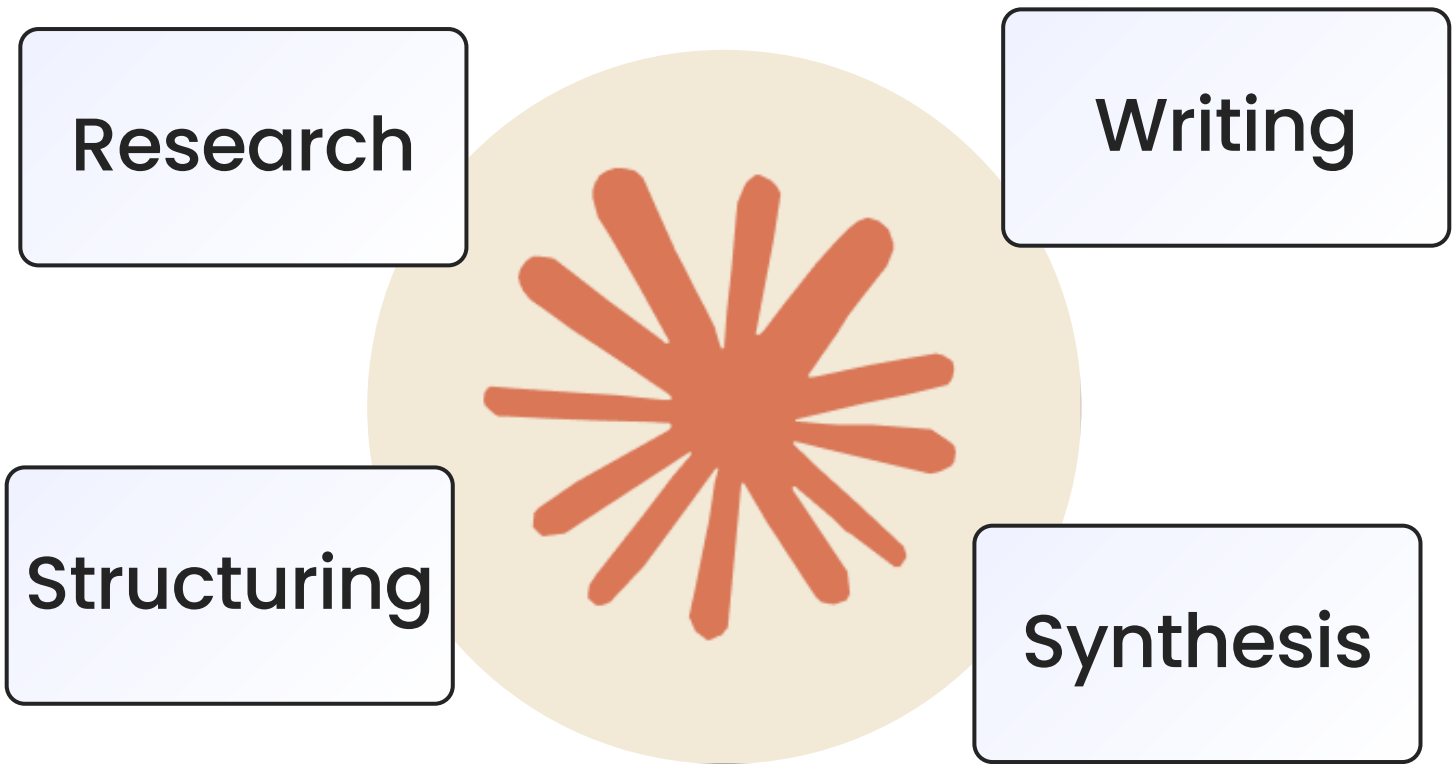


Repost This

This is Claude Co-work

Not a chatbot

- A workspace.
- You bring context.
- It handles the thinking.



Yonathan Levy

Repost This

Workflow 1

Make your posts searchable

Paste your full post history into a Project once. Reuse it later.

- Every post in one structured document
- Grouped by topic and recurring ideas
- Frameworks automatically extracted

Please create a searchable knowledge base from all my LinkedIn posts:

1. Use Claude in Chrome to access my LinkedIn profile at [YOUR LINKEDIN URL]
2. Read through all my posts (go back as far as you can)
3. Extract every post and organize them into a structured document with:
4. Posts grouped by theme/topic
   - Each post tagged with relevant keywords
   - A table of contents for easy navigation
   - Your analysis of recurring frameworks or ideas I use
   - Topics I've covered frequently vs. gaps I haven't addressed
5. Format it as a searchable markdown document
6. Include post dates so I can see how my thinking has evolved

The goal is to make it easy for me to search "what did I say about X" and find it immediately, plus identify patterns in my own thinking.

Sonnet 4.5

Paste your full post history once. Reuse it later.

Yonathan Levy

Repost This

Workflow 2

Turn viral posts into repeatable formats

- Identifies hook, build, and payoff
- Compares structure across posts
- Applies the pattern to your idea

Please analyze high-performing LinkedIn posts and help me write in that structure:

1. Use Claude in Chrome to read these LinkedIn posts: [PASTE 3-5 POST URLS]
2. Break down each post's structure:
   - How does the hook work? (first 1-2 lines)
   - How do they build the argument or story?
   - Where do they pivot or add tension?
   - How do they land the payoff or CTA?
3. Identify the common patterns across these posts that make them effective
4. Now take my idea: [YOUR TOPIC/IDEA]
5. Write it using the same structural principles you identified, but in my voice and for my audience: [DESCRIBE YOUR AUDIENCE]
6. Give me 2-3 versions using different structures from the posts you analyzed, and explain why each structure works for this specific idea.

Sonnet 4.5

Workflow 3

Turn one idea into five posts

- Splits one insight into distinct angles
- Each post solves a different reader need
- No overlap in framing

I have one core insight I want to turn into multiple LinkedIn posts without being repetitive.
My core insight: [YOUR INSIGHT - can be rough notes, a paragraph, whatever you've got]
My audience: [WHO YOU'RE WRITING FOR and what they care about]
Please create 5 completely different posts that explore this insight from different angles:

1. The contrarian take - challenge conventional wisdom related to this insight
2. The tactical how-to - make it actionable with specific steps
3. The personal story version - use narrative/experience to illustrate the point
4. The data/example-driven version - use evidence or case studies
5. The "here's what most people miss" version - surface the non-obvious implication

For each post:

- Make sure it stands alone (no "Part 2" references)
- Keep my voice
- Include a strong hook
- Make the structure clear

Also suggest which order I should post these in and why.

Sonnet 4.5

Use after a strong insight or realization

Yonathan Levy

Repost This

Workflow 4

Turn conversations into content

- Pulls ideas from real explanations
- Preserves your natural phrasing
- Converts spoken clarity into post

Please build me a LinkedIn content calendar based on what I'm already saying in meetings and conversations:
I'm uploading: [meeting transcripts / Slack threads / email exchanges / voice memos where I explained ideas well]
Please:

1. Read through everything and identify the strongest, most interesting ideas I'm already articulating
2. Pull out 10-15 distinct post concepts organized by theme
3. For my top 5 ideas, write full first drafts
4. Create a content calendar showing:
   -When to post what (spread across 2-4 weeks)
   - Why this sequence makes sense
   - Which ideas build on each other vs. stand alone

Focus on ideas I've already validated by explaining them to real people. Don't just summarize what I said - turn it into posts optimized for LinkedIn.
My audience: [YOUR AUDIENCE] My goals: [What you want to be known for / what conversations you want to start]

Sonnet 4.5

Yonathan Levy

Repost This

Workflow 5

Mine long content for posts

- Extracts insights by topic
- Separates quotes from explanations
- Produces post-ready ideas

Please extract every usable insight from this podcast and turn it into LinkedIn content:
Podcast: [YOUTUBE LINK / UPLOAD TRANSCRIPT / SPOTIFY LINK if you have transcript]
What I want you to do:

1. Read/watch the entire thing
2. Extract every meaningful insight, organized by theme
3. Identify 8-10 ideas that would work as standalone LinkedIn posts
4. For each idea, give me:
    1. The core insight (1-2 sentences)
    2. Why it matters to my audience
    3. A first draft of the post
    4. Timestamp reference (so I can verify or add more context)

Focus on:

- [Contrarian takes / surprising moments / tactical advice / personal stories / frameworks mentioned / whatever matters most to you]

My audience: [YOUR AUDIENCE]
Don't just transcribe - turn these into posts that work on LinkedIn. Extract the best thinking and make it shareable.

Sonnet 4.5

Yonathan Levy

Repost This

+ Follow

Yonathan Levy

Repost This